

4 Ways the Hive Partner Program Increases Talent Engagement

Reaching your target candidate pool may seem like a daunting task, let alone finding methods to authentically engage with the right audience. Luckily, the hellohive partnership program offers a fully encompassing talent engagement strategy to both connect with early career candidates and leave a lasting impression. Through events, networking opportunities, job prep resources, and ongoing training, the Hive initiatives aim to build relationships between companies and the new generation entering the workforce.

In this article, we will explore how the Hive's initiatives increase talent engagement and offer valuable candidate insight.

Talent Engagement Overview

In today's competitive job market, understanding your candidate pool is vital. Not only does expanding talent engagement enable your company to tailor job descriptions and perks to best attract top applicants, but it also fosters genuine connection with potential candidates.

By partnering with the Hive, your company will have direct access to talent engagement initiatives tailored to reflect your brand's values while also promoting professional development in students and early career candidates.

How hh Increases Talent Engagement

The Hive partnership features a comprehensive range of benefits including strategic event ideation, marketing and promotion to Hive's broad audience, in-event surveys, and heightened brand visibility. In turn, your company can benefit directly from exposure to our eager and up-skilled applicant pool.

Our talent engagement initiatives extend in 4 main categories:

1. Events

Hive events boast a remarkable 90% attendance rate, encouraging authentic talent engagement and valuable candidate data for partners. Aside from leveraging hh's promotion and marketing, your company can directly benefit from connecting with a larger pool of high quality candidates with Hive's community.

Ultimately, Hive's partnership events contribute to our bigger mission – building a better world for tomorrow. By collaborating with companies that follow the same values, our partnerships provide salient professional development opportunities to early career candidates, while offering invaluable insight for companies to tailor job descriptions to the next generation.

2. Networking Opportunities

At Hive, we are focused on an all-encompassing recruiting process. Other than providing a filtered database with strong new candidates, we offer networking opportunities to facilitate real life connection between companies and applicants.

Network opportunities serve as an opportunity for candidates to learn directly about prospective careers from industry professionals including recruiters, senior executives, and former interns. Our networking opportunities extend across several industries including finance, management, healthcare, entertainment, and education.

3. Job Prep Resources

To further prepare candidates for their future roles in your company, the Hive platform offers thorough job prepping resources. Our initiatives both acquaint applicants to their future industries and provide tools to create seamless and successful applications. Resources extend beyond just traditional application aids – they prepare applicants specifically for roles at your company.

Through our educational initiatives, hellohive strives to provide accessible job knowledge to the new generation entering the workforce. We aim to target gaps within the workplace, fostering effective and efficient change in talent acquisition.

4. Ongoing Training

To keep up with the constant shift in job marketplaces, ongoing training and education are vital. Through analysis of current recruitment trends, our training and educational programs continue to foster relevant methods for companies to engage with talent pools.

The Hive's ongoing training doesn't just match the pace of hiring trends – it provides extensive insight towards candidate data and values. Additionally, our platform extends outreach and training programs to a vast pool of eager students and early career candidates, thus establishing a higher bar for quality job recruitment placement.

Candidate Insights with Hive Platform

Hive's talent engagement strategies not only give you first hand access to a strong pool of eager early career candidates, but also the ability to cohort demographic insights. Our features seamlessly promote your brand's awareness while also mitigating any gaps in relationships with candidates to promote higher conversion and retention rates. Furthermore, partnering with Hive provides education to both sides of the equation, ultimately creating a pipeline to future talent.

From in-event surveys to personalized outreach, the Hive platform supplies post-event insights and role marketing. Our platform also allows you to track candidate progress from event to hire, while our dedicated CSM seamlessly delivers candidate data, offering first-hand insights to further connect with your desired talent pool.

How the Hive Platform Enhances Current Talent Engagement Strategies

Aside from facilitating authentic discussion between candidates and industry professionals, the Hive platform offers worthwhile deliverables to partners. In addition to recruiting and promoting our events, our platform analyzes attendance rates and attendee demographics. Our in-event surveys also offer customizable questionnaires to further acquire candidate data.

Connecting with your talent pool offers more than just engagement. Through understanding prospective candidates, you can set up your talent acquisition operations to increase conversions and maintain higher retention rates.

Learn More About Hive's Talent Engagement Initiatives

Building a strong base with talent resolves any pains with understanding your target candidate pool, and allows your company to tailor job descriptions best suited for your intended audience. Doing so creates a pipeline for future roles, allowing you to reach quality candidates with ease and increase retention rates.

Request a demo to learn more about how the Hive's programs can directly benefit your talent acquisition needs.